Tabs

[AC 1] When a screen reader navigates into the tab controls, they would expect to hear "Online tab selected 1 of 2" or similar.

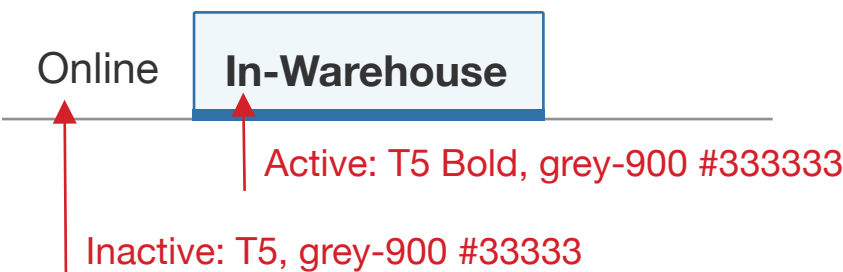

[AC 2] The screen reader user is expecting to hear that these elements have a role of "tab", how many items are in the tab list (1 of 2), and which tab is currently active "selected".

[AC 3] A keyboard and screen reader user would expect specific keyboard interactions as well.

a. When focus is outside the tablist and moves inside it, focus moves to the currently active tab.

b. When focus is on the active tab, TAB moves focus to the next element in the keyboard focus order (typically the element in the tabpanel).

c. The left/right arrow keys move focus to (and optionally activates) the next/previous tab element in the tablist.
